Enjoy the Moosehead Lake Area
You can spend a day on Moosehead and feel like you are the only person on the water. You feel like the lake is yours for the time you are there. Considering the amount of space available, the feeling might not be far from wrong.

In a typical year, the best boating occurs from Memorial Day through early September. Full lake levels occur the beginning of the season, with the annual drawdown commencing in mid August. By late fall, the lake is usually down at least 3’ so some caution is required in shallow bays or coves. The lake is adequately marked with hazard buoys, but only beyond 200’ from the shore. Launching facilities are available in Greenville, Rockwood and Seboomook for public use.

There are numerous other lakes and ponds in the Moosehead area that offer all types of boating opportunities.

For those of you seeking privacy and solitude for canoeing and kayaking scores of smaller lakes and ponds await you. Some of our favorites are the Wilson Ponds, Prong Pond, First Roach Pond, Brassua Lake, Mountain View Pond, Sawyer and Indian Ponds. These all offer launching but some are carry in. For those of you who would like to experience the beauty and tranquility of gliding across a pond and sneaking up on the wildlife that calls this area their home, you may rent equipment at local shops in town. Some even offer pick up and delivery to your destination.

Regardless of the size of your boat, there is abundant room for you to enjoy the Moosehead Lake area, a true boater’s paradise!

The Moosehead Lake Region offers some of the finest fishing opportunities for wild eastern brook trout, lake trout, blue back trout, landlocked salmon, muskie and smallmouth bass anywhere in the northeast. The Moosehead fisheries management area is over 4000 square miles, with more than 600 lakes and ponds, 30 miles of major rivers and over 3000 miles of tributaries. Within the Moosehead Lake Region are the headwaters of the Penobscot, Kennebec, St. John, Moose, Roach and Allagash Rivers.

Moosehead Lake, the center piece of our region is 75,000 acres, nearly forty miles long and twelve miles wide with breath taking scenery of undeveloped shoreline and mountains. Mount Kineo rises over 760 feet straight above the surface of the lake. There are endless opportunities for every big lake fishermen. Moosehead Lake is famous for its landlocked salmon, brook trout, and lake trout fishery. Smallmouth bass in the Lily Bay area provides good shallow water fishing for the whole family through the summer months. Ice shanties dot the lake in the winter housing fisherman in pursuit of the thriving lake trout. Many other lakes in the immediate area with easy access from state maintained public launches gives avid anglers lots of choices most with lodges or cabins rentals with dock space for your boat or a rental.

Our small pond eastern brook trout fishery attracts anglers from far and wide. There are forty ponds within a one hour’s drive of downtown Greenville. Many are road side with easy canoe or kayak access or you may choose to hike into the many back country ponds where your only visitor may be one of the many moose and deer that call this area home.

Fifteen minutes from Greenville on the west side of Moosehead Lake you’ll find the East Outlet of the Kennebec River, a beautiful 3 ½ mile fly fishing only river, famous for its landlocked salmon and brook trout fishery. Another ten miles puts you on the West Outlet of the Kennebec and its wonderful smallmouth angling. Ten more minutes and you’re on the Moose River, in the quaint lakeside village of Rockwood, a tail water fishery that holds landlocked salmon and brookies all season. Twenty miles up the eastern side of Moosehead finds you in the tiny town of Kokadjo and the headwaters of the Roach River another fly fishing only, catch and release river winding 6 ½ miles through undeveloped remote land emptying into Spencer Bay on Moosehead Lake. Fly fishermen from all walks of life make an annual trip to Kokadjo for the fall spawning run of landlocked salmon and big brook trout.

If smallmouth bass angling has great appeal, you’ll find some world class spots very accessible to those willing to step off the beaten path. Our cooler climate keeps fish in the shallows longer so explosive surface action lasts well into the summer.

We invite you to spend some of your precious fishing time in the remote Moosehead Lake Region where our local outfitters and guide services will gladly help you plan your trip. Experiences that may just bring you back again and again.
A scenic tour in a floatplane is a great way to appreciate the vastness of the Moosehead Lake region. The woods, lakes, and mountains stretch as far as you can see.

Airplanes hold a very special place in the history of Moosehead Lake and this heritage is celebrated every year at the International Sea Plane Fly-In. This event is by far the most popular annual event in the county.

Come fly for yourself, and see the area from a different perspective!

Waterfalls

Warm spring days melt our winter snow cover and fill our creeks, streams & rivers with water, lots of water. Once peaceful streams become raging rivers and waterfall viewing is at its best. April through June and September and October are great months to view our waterfalls. By last count our region had over 200 waterfalls including two of the finest in Maine.

• Moxie Falls one of the two largest falls in Maine has several plunges including one of 90 feet. Smaller falls can be found just upstream as well as a nice swimming hole. Make sure not to swim close to the head of the falls.

• Gulf Hagas often called the Grand Canyon of Maine is a magnificent gorge nearly four miles long with vertical slate walls 300 to 400 feet deep in places. In the gorge the West branch of the Pleasant River drops some 400 feet creating numerous waterfalls, plunges, cascades, chutes & pools as well as four named falls: Stair, Billings, Buttermilk & Screw Auger.

Check out our website for additional information and links to hundreds of photos of waterfalls in our area, as well as our hiking guide in PDF format with directions to the top waterfalls.

For many years, water traffic was the main mode of transportation in this region. Steamboats carried livestock, equipment, supplies and passengers. The need for Moosehead steamboats waned with the coming of roads.

The last survivor of the fleet, the Katahdin became a towboat hauling pulpwood rafts. In 1975, she hauled her last log boom across Moosehead Lake to the East Outlet. Scott Paper Company presented the Katahdin to the Moosehead Marine Museum in 1977. In 1985, after many years of devoted work by many, the Katahdin, Queen of the fleet, once again sailed over the deep waters of Moosehead Lake.

The Katahdin is the oldest floating hull of Bath Iron Works, built in 1914. The major repairs to the hull of the Katahdin have been completed, but funding is still needed. All donations and memberships to the Moosehead Marine Museum are greatly appreciated.
Every year, autumn displays brilliant hues of red, yellow and orange. The typical “leafpeeping” season is from mid-September thru mid-October. The change in the landscape from the greens of summer is breathtaking.

There are several scenic loops for those traveling by automobile. It also happens to be a very popular time of year for hikers to get the up close and personal look at autumn’s beauty. Whatever your mode of transportation may be, make the Moosehead Lake region the leafpeeping destination for you!

Moose Watching

• The flap of skin under the moose’s throat is called a bell.

• Only male moose grow antlers, which they shed in early winter and re-grow during the year. The main function of antlers is for display during the mating season.

• In the Moosehead Lake Region, Moose outnumber people 3 to 1.

• Moose have no top front teeth.

• After the first calf, Moose quite often have twins.

• Moose can only see about 25 feet.

• The first law to protect Moose was passed in 1930.

• The best times to see moose are early in the morning or later in the evening (dusk).

• The best time of year to see a moose is from mid-spring through late June.

• Moose prefer shady, wet areas such as bogs and marshes.

• Always be aware when you are driving after dark to be alert for any moose in the road.

Local Moose Hangouts:

• DOT (Department of Transportation) | Greenville - Head south approximately 4.5 miles from the Visitor’s Center and on your right is one of the best places for sighting moose in the area. If heading north towards Greenville, as you drive through Shirley, be sure to look for the DOT sign the moose will be across the street.

• Lily Bay Road | Kokadjo - Take a scenic drive to Kokadjo, a small community north of Greenville. Stay on Lily Bay Road for approx. 20 miles and keep your eyes open for moose along the way!

• Lazy Tom Bog | Kokadjo - If you’ve reached Kokadjo and still haven’t had your fill of moose sightings, head to Lazy Tom Bog by continuing north 1.5 miles past the bridge in Kokadjo. Stay to your left, then take the intersection to the left and continue for half a mile more to the bridge over Lazy Tom Stream.

• Mt. Kineo | Rockwood - Make a day of your moose watching by driving to Rockwood, a town north of Greenville where you can head over to Mt. Kineo for some hiking or exploring, and along the way be sure to watch for moose!

The five moose photos on the cover are all by the 2010 Moose Maine Photo Contest winner, amateur photographer Linda Horton of Miami, Florida. Linda visited the Moosehead Lake area four times in 2010 and went on four moose safaris. Linda writes that she saw over 100 moose during her travels and on one of her trips she witnessed a baby moose which the cow had delivered just minutes before.

To improve your odds of seeing a moose, you might try a Guided Moose Safari. See page 57.
The Moosehead Lake Region is ideal for birding. Almost every warbler of the northern forest is found here. Hard-to-find species thrive in the area, including spruce grouse, boreal chickadee, gray jay, black-backed woodpecker, Bicknell’s thrush, and white-winged crossbill. Enjoy birding as a near-wilderness experience amid lakes, streams, bogs, and abundant wildlife.

Many inns, B&Bs, lodges, and sporting camps cater to birders and have access to information on where to search for target species. The Moosehead Lake Region was the first area in the state to be researched and mapped for the Maine Birding Trail. Check out our website for a printable PDF file of the Moosehead Lake Birding Guide.
Our 300+ miles of ATV trails make the Moosehead Lake Region a great destination for ATVers. The trails allow easy access to hiking, camping, fishing and hunting areas. Remember to bring your camera for the magnificent views along the way; from our mountains peaks to the many bogs and ponds where you always have a good chance of spotting a moose.

ATV service, rentals and guided trips are available and several trails now extend into downtown Greenville, Rockwood, Pittston Farm, the Forks & Kokadjo in case you want to visit a restaurant, do some shopping or get gas.
